

RESIDENT PERMIT IN SWITZERLAND

B PERMIT (residence permit)

Resident foreign nationals are foreign nationals who reside in Switzerland for a longer period of time for a certain purpose, with or without gainful employment.

It is issued if the foreign national is in possession of an employment contract of at least twelve months' duration or of unlimited duration. This permit allows you to reside in Switzerland without interruption for 365 days the first time that is required; when renewing its validity has a duration of 5 years. First-time renewal of the permit can be limited to one year, however, if the holder has been involuntarily unemployed for more than twelve consecutive months.

If the permit is tied to the fact to work on Swiss territory, the bearer must live in the canton which granted the permit. Taxes as an employee with this type of permit are levied at source, which are deducted directly from your salary.

The foreign nationals which do not engage in gainful employment are entitled to a B permit if they can prove they have sufficient financial means and adequate health and accident insurance.
